Signs of a Big Revolt and a Political Scandal.

Following upon the conviction of election officers a fraud committed in the Second Assembly District during the last election the resignation from the Tammany General Committee of Congressman Dunphy, published this morning, has caused a sensation.

The Congressman says he resigned because he cannot stand by and see the most glaring frauds perpetrated upon the ballot. He points out the many convictions of the Diver leaders, of the trials that are to follow, and the fact that Diver himself has been indicted.

Some time ago Congressman Dunphy was charged with having engineered the last Grand Jury investigation. He admitted having done so, and added that there was a lot more to come. It is now known that the Grand Jury tried to get at the chief malefactor, the member of Democratic forces called "The Boss," however, to secure the necessary evidence. That evidence, it is said, will now be forthcoming.

BURGLAR MAY DIE.

Jumped from a Window While Trying to Escape.

Lawrence Had Attempted to Rob His Employer's House.

The Latter Surprised Him and Effected His Capture.

William Lawrence, forty-five years old, was in Gouverneur hospital to-day, hovering between life and death, as a result of injuries received in attempting to escape from capture while trying to commit a burglary last night.

Lawrence had for the last few months been employed by Morris Doyle, in his saloon at 119 Roosevelt street, as a carver. He was apparently honest and industrious, and seemed to have the highest regard for his employer.

Yesterday afternoon Lawrence was sent by Doyle to deliver some groceries to his house, while in the house, 25 Hamilton street, he saw Mrs. Doyle counting and sorting out a pile of silver.

The money had been taken from a trunk near the rear window. Lawrence remarked that it was a "big pile" to keep about one's house, but Mrs. Doyle paid no attention to the remark, and her suspicions were not in the least aroused.

Lawrence saw her count all the money, change it in packages and replace it in her trunk. Then he went away.

Last night Mr. Doyle closed his saloon early and returned to his home at 1219 West 121st street.

He lives with his wife on the second floor of the building, and he and two men, who he passed by without a word, entered the house.

When he attempted to enter his room he found that the door was bolted from the inside.

Mr. Doyle, he knew, was away. Mrs. Doyle, a neighbor, who lives across the hall, told him that some one had entered the house.

"Then I'll see who it is," said Doyle. He threw himself against the door and broke it in.

Lawrence was standing near a bed opposite the door. At the sudden and unexpected appearance of Doyle, he jumped for the open window in the rear and sprang out.

Doyle ran downstairs and found the man lying unconscious in the yard. He summoned a policeman, and the burglar was removed to Gouverneur Hospital, where it was stated that his injuries would probably prove fatal.

Lawrence, with two confederates, had planned to rob Doyle's house, but were frustrated by the unexpected appearance of their intended victim on the scene.

A complaint of attempted burglary was filed at the police station at the police station, but he was in too critical a condition to be taken to court this morning.

BLESSING CALLSON FELLOWS.

City Marshal Read of His Indulgent and Good Boods Ready.

City Marshal Thomas J. Blessing, who has been in the city for some time, is said to be in the city for some time.

He said he did not quite understand the matter, and it was true that a bill had been filed against him by the City of New York.

In regard to the report that he kept a saloon at 230 West Twenty-second street, he said that was the address of the City Court, to which he was attached.

Shortly after Blessing's appearance Charles Moffat, of 213 West Thirty-eighth street, who is also alleged to have been in the city, was called upon by the City of New York.

Neither had been officially notified to attend.

EXTRA. 2 O'CLOCK. GREAT BATTLE COMING ON.

Real Secret of Gladstone's Retirement from the Premiership.

YOUNGER LEADER NEEDED.

His Habit and Thought Against a Conflict with Hereditary Rule.

THURSDAY'S NOTABLE SPEECH.

It Marks the Close of a Great Career and the Opening of a New Era.

(Special to The Evening World.) LONDON, March 3.—To-day's Speaker, the Liberal weekly organ, strikes the keynote of the situation in saying: "It is a legacy of effort and stubborn conflict which Gladstone leaves to those who are to come after him, and that Thursday's speech in the House of Commons will be notable on the pages of history as marking not only the close of a matchless career, but the opening of a new era in the National story."

"The fact of this coming battle is the real secret of Gladstone's resignation. The habit of his life and thought has been against a conflict either with the hereditary legislators or the hereditary throne; and, although he bowed to the will of his party and the inexorable logic of events in making his last speech a call to that great battle, he preferred to commit the leadership to a more willing as well as a younger spirit."

AS TO THE NEW CABINET.

Humor Has It That But Two Ministers Will Be Changed.

(By Associated Press.) WINDSOR, March 3.—The Right Hon. William E. Gladstone, Prime Minister, First Lord of the Treasury and Lord Privy Seal, to give him his full title on the eve of his retirement from office, arose early this morning and took a long walk in the grounds of Windsor Castle, at which historical group of buildings he had been the guest of the Queen over night.

The morning was fine, and Mr. Gladstone, who was accompanied by General the Right Hon. Sir Henry Frederick Ponsonby, was in the best of spirits.

After his morning walk, Mr. Gladstone visited his old friend, the Dean of Windsor, the Very Rev. Philip Frank Elliot, D.D.

Most, if not all of the Ministers, are expected to be present at the meeting of the Privy Council this afternoon.

The movements of Lord Rosebery, who is expected to be the next Prime Minister, are now watched with the greatest care. His house, 38 Berkeley square, was where a crowd of people anxious to catch a glimpse of the man who now occupies such a great share of public attention.

During the morning Earl Spencer, the Right Hon. Henry H. Asquith, Secretary of State for Home Affairs, and other Ministers called upon Lord Rosebery and remained in consultation with him for some time.

While it seems to be settled that Lord Rosebery will be Premier, there is considerable diversity of opinion as to who will be the next Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. The general opinion seems to be that the Earl of Kimberley, who is now Lord President of the Council and Secretary of State for India, is the coming man for this position. Lord Kimberley has had a great deal of experience, having been Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs and for India, and has been Minister to St. Petersburg, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, Lord Privy Seal, twice Secretary of State for the Colonies and Secretary of State for India.

Among the other Cabinet changes discussed is the probability that John Morley, now Chief Secretary for Ireland, will succeed the Earl of Kimberley as Secretary of State for India.

If current rumor in official circles is to be believed there are only two Cabinet changes which will be made.

The Radicals, who have been making such a bitter opposition to the selection
